

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Modern Greek Studies

MODERN GREEK STUDIES SYMPOSIUM
MARCH 11 & 12
LEVIS FACULTY CENTER

FOREIGNERS IN GREECE THEN AND NOW

Thursday, March 11, Levis Faculty Center, 3rd Floor

5:30 p.m.: KEYNOTE ADDRESS: "Imagined Homelands"

Artemis Leontis, University of Michigan, Modern Greek Program

Friday, March 12, Levis Faculty Center, Rooms 402, 403, 404

9:00 a.m.: "The Stranger at the Gate"

Fred Naiden, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Department of History

10:00 a.m.: "Sexual Subjugation and Ethnic Diversity by the Spear in Ancient Greece"

Kathy Gaca, Vanderbilt University, Department of Classical Studies

11:00 a.m.: "'Now We Are Like Strangers': Migration, Paranoia and Citizenship in Greek Thrace"

Elizabeth Davis, Princeton University, Department of Anthropology

11:45 a.m.: "A Challenge to Societal Security? Migrants in Greece Today"

Neovi Karakatsani, Indiana University at South Bend, Department of Political Science

1:45 p.m.: "Sickness at Home: Domestic Economies in Greek Narratives of Migration post-1989"

Vangelis Calotychos, Columbia University, Program in Hellenic Studies

2:30 p.m.: "Reimagining Φιλοξενία: Immigration and the Politics of Civilization in Modern Greek Culture"

Franklin L. Hess, Indiana University, Modern Greek Program & Western European Studies

3:15 p.m.: Discussion: "The European Union and the Status of Foreigners in Greece"

Detailed program available at moderngreek.illinois.edu

COSPONSORS: The School of Languages, Cultures & Linguistics, the Department of the Classics, the European Union Center, the Program in Comparative and World Literature, the Department of English, the Department of Anthropology, and the Department of Political Science

For information, contact Angeliki Tzanetou, Department of the Classics (tzanetou@illinois.edu) or Kostas Kourtikakis, Department of Political Science (kkourtik@illinois.edu)